

2026 Mid-Year Impact Report

Here's a look at our Highs and Lows — and ways you can continue supporting parents!

Highs

With your support, more than 2,000 parents have found community through 179 PEPS Groups.

240 parents of teens have found support through PEPS workshops, community events, and a learning series with Seattle Public Schools this year as our Parents of Adolescents and Teens (PAT) program continues to grow.

A record number of you advocated with PEPS to strengthen Washington's Paid Family & Medical Leave program. Continue your support: stay informed at peps.org/get-involved/advocacy.

Recruiting Group Leaders for our 2-parent evening groups remains one of our biggest challenges. Continue your support: Lead a group and recommend the opportunity to a friend.

You've helped us launch PEPS in Tacoma and build new partnerships. Continue your support by introducing us to more people in Pierce County.

Group leaders are helping parents navigate stress and uncertainty with new tools and discussion guides on well-being.

Parents are connecting beyond groups through PEPS Gatherings like our LGBTQIA+ family picnic, grandparent programs, workshops, and workplace events.

Lows

Parents face rising pressure from stress, finances, and technology's growing influence on family life. Your support gives parents space to connect with others who understand.

As fear of immigration enforcement keeps many families isolated at home, trusted community connections are more important than ever. With your support, we're partnering with local organizations to reach parents where they already feel safe and supported.

You helped make this work possible. Thank you for being part of the PEPS community!
